Meals Arrangements

Full details of meals arrangements are set out in the Domestic Information for Senior Members Handbook. For Members' convenience, we note here that:

Lunch is usually served in the Freind Room from 12.45 hrs. during the week and from 13.00 hrs. at weekends, followed by coffee in the Kidd Room or the Old Common Room.

It is customary only to invite lunch guests for professional purposes on weekdays, due to limited space.

Afternoon tea is served in the Common Room from 15.30 hrs. to 16.45 hrs. on weekdays from Monday of noughth week to Friday of ninth week of each term and to Friday of 10th week in Michaelmas Term (i.e., during the admissions interview period).

It is customary not to invite more than one guest to afternoon tea and only to invite a guest on professional business.

Dinner is served at high table in Hall from Thursday of noughth week to Friday of ninth week each term. Members gather in the Common Room no later than 19.10 hrs. for 19.20 hrs. (19.15 hrs. Oxford time), where drinks are available from 18.45 hrs. and where coffee is served after the meal. Members of the House and of Congregation wear the appropriate black gown when dining in Hall. From Sunday of tenth week to Wednesday of noughth week, dinner is served in the Keene Room or the Freind Room, except during closed periods. Outside of term, Members gather in the Common Room for pre-drinks and return to the Common Room for coffee; gowns are not worn.

By custom, Tuesday and Friday evenings are guest nights, though Members entitled to invite dinner guests are welcome to do so at any time – save for Domestic Evenings, when guests other than partners are discouraged.

With the exception of Formal Guest Nights, it is customary not to invite more than two dinner guests on any given evening. However, it is possible to invite an additional guest or guests, when numbers permit: Members should consult the Steward as far as possible in advance.

Dessert, a separate course of fruit, chocolates and dessert wines, is served after dinner on Tuesdays – Fridays inclusive between noughth and ninth weeks of term, if six or more diners request it when signing in. A small additional charge is levied. At 'formal' dessert, which may only take place when there are at least two full Members of Common Room present and a minimum of six people. The custom is for the president to seat the party around the table in the Dodgson Room or the Freind Room (according to numbers) and for the decanters to be circulated twice. Dessert is 'informal' when served in the Common Room, without formalities. Gowns are not worn at dessert, whether it be formal or informal.

The Common Room provides tea, coffee and hot chocolate in the Common Room at other times, where a selection of newspapers and magazines is also available.
